To Our Senior Class,

Over the past four years, we've grown and learned from each other. We've experienced every little part of high school you could imagine. From overheated social studies hallways to school cancellations from the extreme cold; enthusiastic Badland sections even when victory wasn't ours for the taking; overwhelming school rowdiness during the school day and words of encouragement from the motivational speakers like Bob the Painter,and the Yellow Dress Production. Our school has a truly unique student body displayed by events like Wachusett Idol and reaching to Project Thursday. We have had so many memories of high school, like when there were six fire alarms in one day, freshmen year when every hallway was actually open; there was a walkout protesting the war, and all the long, hard hikes up The Hill. We started off as freshmen seeing things as one-dimensional, but over the years we have learned to broaden our horizons, open our eyes and view things from every angle . . .

The Underclassmen of Wachusett...

There would be a huge difference in our school without the underclassmen. Think about it, the halls would be manageable. No random stopping, no backpacks, and no obnoxious yelling. Wachusett would seem peaceful for once. Yet where would entertainment for the seniors come from? For that one reason in particular, the underclassmen exist. The underclassmen remind all the seniors that they were once that age, young with all the qualities that we now hate. Also, in being an underclassmen, it will make you appreciate how great it is when you finally are a senior. After three excruciating years of being the dreaded underclassmen, you will become what you have been striving for; big man on campus, the big kahuna, the big fish, but in much simpler terms, a senior. As the underclassmen work up to more privileges, like driving to school, leaving during study halls, and obtaining better locker locations, the underclassmen begin to truly understand what it means to be a Mountianeer. However much you feel like an underdog, scapegoat, or even the four-year-old girl you have to babysit, remember you will have your time to shine after you've done your time and had a possible dip in the Freshmen Pond. The underclassmen may have started at the bottom of the barrel, but they are making their way to the top, and seeing things from every angle.

From the Bottom Up

Underclassmen

"Always be nice to those younger than you, because they are the ones who will be writing about you."
Ayru Connolly

"One of the advantages of being disorderly is that one is constantly making exciting discoveries."

A Life of Academics...

Education - the goal of high school. It seems that most students are aware of this, however much we try to forget it. However, that does not stop us from whining about the test next period, jamming in those last minute facts, or the one hundred pages in the book we have to read by tomorrow that we haven't even started. We eventually all realize that learning is the foundation for our future. So even though we procrastinate, we do thank all the teachers who forced us to participate in our education because our future is coming, front and center. There are students who excel in academics and are inducted into National Honors Society, there they can help out the community with reading programs for younger children. Students who are very good in science can participate in the Science Fair and show off their inventions or their discoveries. All along the way the teachers at Wachusett have all helped us to see things from every angle, and will keep doing for years to come.

Front and Center

Academics

"The foundation of every state is the education of it's youth."
Diogenes Laeritus

"It is the mark of an educated mind to be able to entertain a though without excepting it."
Aristotle

Administration

Dear Members of the Class of 2006:

I want to take this opportunity to extend my very best wishes to each and every member of the Class of 2006. You have attended Wachusett Regional High School during a very trying time in the history of our school. Your Class will be the last to graduate from our antiquated facility. Although your senior year was marked with many construction issues, you showed resiliency and determination. Your work on our stage, on playing fields, our art rooms, and in our classrooms rival those of many fine classes that have come before you. You can be assured that you will be remembered by all with whom you have worked.

Despite the struggle, it is my hope that you have had a productive and positive four years at Wachusett. The Class of 2006 has made a number of contributions to our school. You have shown positive leadership and school spirit, and it has been my pleasure to be your principal. I hope that you have taken from our school as much as you have given to it.

Once again, my best to each of you. Good luck in all that you do.

Sincerely,

Sheila M. Frias

Wachusett's Finest Teachers

Sometimes the best teachers aren't always the most popular...

but their amazing work never goes unnoticed...

Mrs. Barwise

Mrs. Barwise is the Life Skills teacher here at the Regional. Her favorite thing about being a teacher is making enough money that she can afford to travel to exotic places all summer. In her spare time, she likes to read and work on IEPs.

Mr. Caouette

Mr. Caouette has favorite quotes that get him through the day. "The Reverse Side always has a Reverse Side" and "If you come to a fork in the road, take it." Y. Berra.

Mr. Crowley
D.E.C.A

His favorite thing about teaching? "Seeing kids laugh and learn at that same time."
A favorite quote: "Always carry a thin, cheap calculator."
Now, that's sound advice coming from a business teacher!

A+

Mrs. Donelson

"When I was practicing RDH (Registered Dental Hygentist), I did a program i dental health in all the elementary schools which I loved. So when I could n longer practice due to carpal tunnel, it seemed natural to become a teacher!"

Mr. Hair

Mr. Hair's favorite thing about being a teacher is the Wachusett students, "Their attitude and enthusiasm made me a better teacher!"

Ms. Hedberg

Ms. Hedberg's favorite thing about being a teacher is "the creative freedom to do what I like in the classroom. The kids themselves who both keep us you & make us feel old, as well as inspire us."

Mr. Nerbonne

Mr. Nerbonne keeps the music flowing at WRHS. He's the chorale director behind the melodies and harmonies we hear in the fall and spring concerts, Madrigal Dinner and Music in Our Schools production. He and the singing talents of Wachusett certainly make beautiful music together!

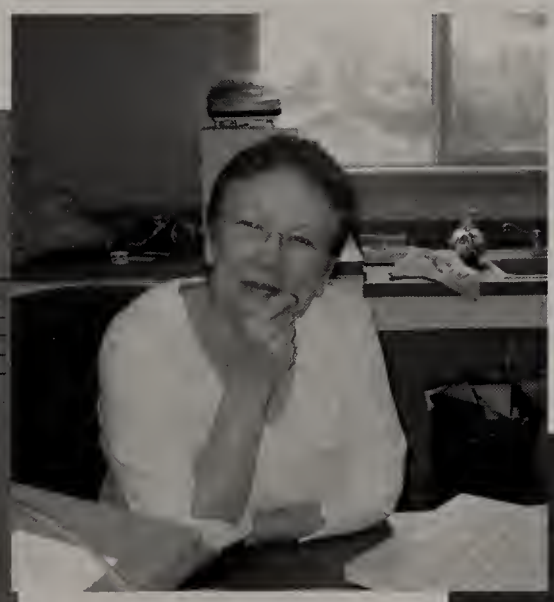

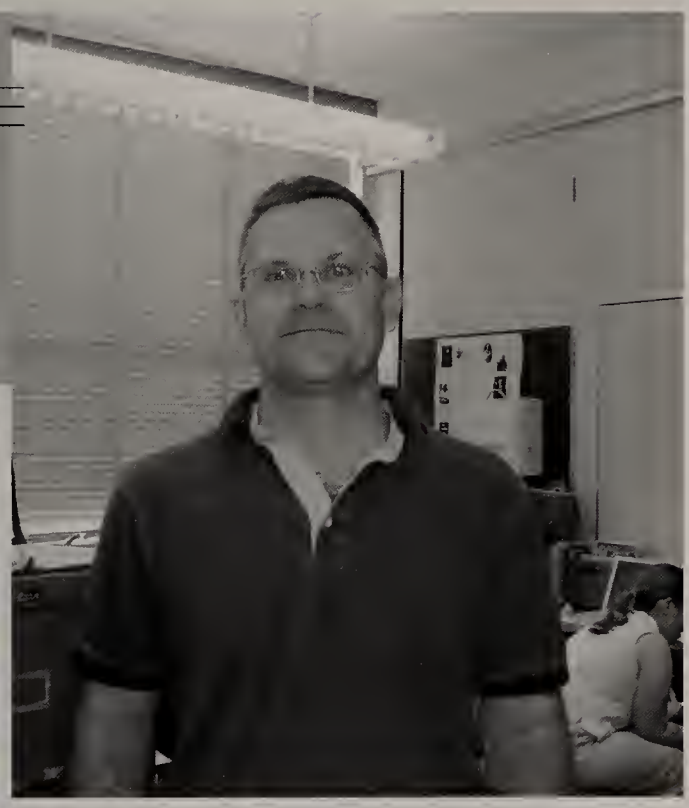

Mr. Townsend

"Sharing stories and laughs with other teachers, challenging my students with new and interesting problems they've never considered before, and hoping at the end of the day that I've made a tiny difference," are some of Mr. Townsend's favorite things about being a teacher.

Mrs. Sullivan

Her five classes aside, Mrs. Sullivan works tireless hours helping young empirical thinkers with their science projects. She has mentored many students to the level of excellence, especially when you consider the successes WRHS Science Fair students have had at the state, national and international science fairs in recent years!

Mr. Welsch

When asked why he got into teaching, Mr. Welsch replied, "The money. Seriously, what else am I suppose to do with a degree in Folklore and when my major marketable skill is driving oxen?"

Science, Business, & Technology

The chalky feel of those black lab tables, the weird smell that the science hallways seems to perpetually have, and the inability to understand any of those long-block labs are just some of the memories that we will have of the Science Dept. In spite of all the confusing ideas we learn about in physics, biology, and chemistry, the teachers present them in ways that make it bearable, and even interesting. All the hands-on experiences in science class help students learn about the environment in which they live, which is actually important in the modern world.

For all the future MBA's of our senior class, the Business Dept. offers instruction in a variety of courses. Accounting & Marketing are just a couple of classes available. Sure, they may sound a little tedious, but business classes actually convey information that is relevant to the world today, and at least the math of it is pretty easy.

The Technology Dept. provides a place for the handful of kids that actually understand technology, the students who truly appreciate, maybe even worship, the innovation of the computer. Learning about CAD and computer programming are the focuses of this department, so these students will probably be earning obscene amounts of money in 20 years.

2006 WRHS Science Fair

Science Seminar's Highlight of the Year

Drosophilia melagnogaster, anoxia, and the effect of light synchronization on hydrogen production are just a few of the topics discussed at Wachusett's Science Fair, held in February, 2006. Each year, the Science Seminar brings the most promising student into contact with hands-on learning, culminating in the presentations given at the Science Fair competition. This year saw more amazing talent and effort from Wachusett students, especially first place winners James Valcourt, Daniel DeCiero, and Devin Schlicting, with their studies of anoxia, Alzheimer's, and car alarms, respectively. All in all, the science fair isn't just a gathering of laboratory enthusiasts; there are actually a lot of interesting exhibits presented in a manner so that even the dumbest among us can understand.

English, Art, & Directed Study

For those of us who believe that Harry Potter or the novelization of Star Wars are books of literary substance, the English Department provides a different sort of reading education. With everything from Greek epics and Scandanavian literature--at least you read Beowulf early and got it over with- to Shakespeare and modern classics, students learn a lot about people and ideas outside their own individual worlds. And while writing critiques in the late hours of the night isn't exactly the definition of entertainment, at least we are learning to capitalize on our procrastination skills. An even more creative department than English is that of Art, with classes that allow students to experiment with different mediums. Staffed with inspirational and imaginative teachers, the art department offers instruction in a variety of courses. For kids with traditional interests, there are several painting and drawing classes, while others maintain a modern edge with graphic communications.

Directed Study focuses on MCAS and SAT preparation. This class helps students with all the mundane requirements of high school, while introducing us to the college admissions process. Students are able to think creatively and specifically about what the future may hold.

Academic Awards Night

Academic Achievement

Rewards for Excellence

Just like any other year, Academics Awards Night was held to honor some of the most enthusiastic and intelligent students at Wachusett. In spite of the lack of an appropriate facility, construction failed to stop this year's event as it took place in a makeshift auditorium in the new gym.

Teachers recognized students in every area, from foreign languages to sciences to physical education. Students were recognized not only for scholastic ability, but also for their love of certain subjects, emphasizing the impact made by simply caring about a class.

Arts Encore Night

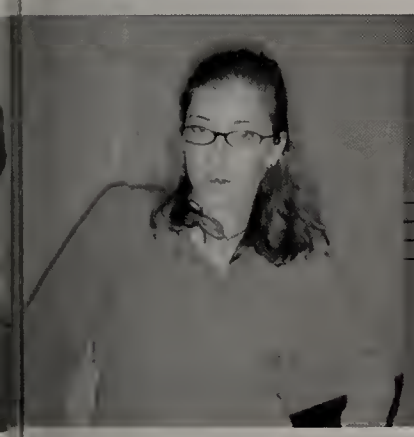

Above: An impressive student-created oil pastel painting hangs for the audience to admire.

Arts Encore is very similar to Academic Awards Night, just with a creative twist to honor all the talented arts students at Wachusett. These awards are received not only by painters and sculptors, but also by musicians and actors.

Just as with Academics Awards, Arts Encore emphasizes students' abilities as well as their outstanding effort and enthusiasm, all of which contribute to the excellent reputation of Wachusett Art, Drama, and Music departments.•

Math, Music, & Health

As much as you might complain about the uselessness of all your math courses, let's face it: you'll be using math for the rest of your life, no matter what career you choose. The teachers in this department prepared us well for using math throughout our lives, even if you think you learned absolutely nothing from Algebra of Precalculus.

With three teachers handling hundreds of kids, the Music Department does an excellent job with its curriculum. With all of the concerts packed and several Grammy Awards to its name, this department instructs students on anything from instrumental performance to music theory.

And while they're not teachers, the Health Office is still vital to maintaining a safe environment for the student body. Whether someone passed out in the hallways or simply needs a band-aid, nurses are always prepared to help.

Madrigal Dinner

Celebrating 50 Years of Medieval Madness

Every January, Wachusett holds Madrigal Dinner, a special night of festivities created to revive the Middle Ages. On any one of the three nights, St. Mary's Hall is overwhelmed with music, dancing, and of course, men in tights. 2006 marked the fiftieth anniversary of this event, making it a special four-night celebration for all involved. The traditional entertainment of food and Wachusett's own musical groups was accompanied by a live play version of "Alice In Wonderland." As a grand finale, the kings and queens of years past attended Madrigal Dinner to join this year's king and queen, Ben Radzicki and Nikki Collins.

Clockwise from above: Kaila St. George and Jena Bastardo act out a dramatic moment from the play, Nikki Collins and Greg Wilfred peek their heads out through a castle window, Jacqui Mooney and Dan Collins enter hand in hand

Clockwise from Above: the Seniors in the cast of Madrigal Dinner unwind after their performance; Alex McCool and Emily Palmerino perform together in the play; head maidens Hailey Conn, Rachael Starbard, and Kaila St. George pose with the Madrigal Queen and King; Amanda Winkler holds a giant playing card, an indication that she is a narrator in the play; Cassie O'Connor and Eric McMaster smile before the performance.

Guidance & Foreign Language

The Guidance Department has been there for us from the time we stepped into their offices as naive freshmen. Although we met with our counselors only once a year afterwards, they helped us both academically and emotionally through the abrasive years of high school. And as seniors, we could certainly appreciate their support as we moved on to life after Wachusett, whether it be to college, a career, or the military - admit it, you'd be lost without them.

On a completely different note, the Foreign Language Department always found exciting ways to teach us about other languages and cultures. These courses often involved games and foreign films (with subtitles, of course). In spite of the fact that foreign-language rooms were always the least accessible, since most were located in the dungeon, the language teachers made it interesting enough to make it worth it.

NHS Inductions

National Honor Society Gains New Members

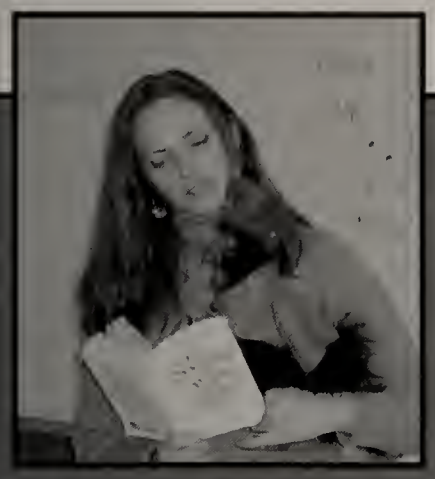

Every January, students, teachers, family, and friends gather together in the high school auditorium to witness inductions in the the Wachusett Chapter of the National Honor Society. This prestigious group values its members for their academic success, leadership, community service, and character, four aspects that are closely looked into concerning candidates for induction. In 2006, the new junior and senior inductees officially became members of NHS in front of the school communitee, existing NHS members, and, of course, Grandma and Grandpa. With entertaining speeches from Meghan Kilcoyne (academics), Kirsten Getchell (leadership), Nate Blake (community service), Grace Lynch (character), and special guest teacher Mr. Jack Farley, the night proved to be very interesting.

Special Education

The Special Education department at Wachusett works cooperatively to create an atmosphere of encouragement and acceptance to help these students learn and thrive. Special Ed. students spend their days learning subjects like math and English, learning hands-on skills in special work programs, and sometimes even participating in integrated regular education classes.

The Best Buddies club aims to form one-on-one relationships between the students in the life skills program and many Wachusett students. Activities range from bowling to dodgeball to the movies, and each successful year is topped off by an ice cream social. The Special Education program here at Wachusett really gives these students the chance to experience a typical high journey.

Social Studies & Physical Education

People are quick to label social studies a daunting subject taught by the typical boring instructor who drills facts into students' heads (think monotonous Ben Stein as Ferris Bueller's Economics teacher). But, here at Wachusett, the Social Studies Department is full of not only courses ranging from Economics to World History, but also teachers that reflect the topics' interesting natures with exciting classes. We'll never forget Mr. Welsch's passion for history, Ms. Shaughnessy-Zeena's mannerisms, or Mr. Farley's stories—just to name a few.

Gym class is another daunting topic, but you've struggled through those three and a half years and now it's finally over (just pray you don't attend a college with physical education requirements). But the gym teachers' die-hard techniques helped delay getting a pizza gut, at least until we graduated from high school. In fact, gym was actually fun, and it equipped us with some useful life skills, like walking across a log or learning to beat someone up (thanks Coach J).

Family & Consumer Science, Instructional Aides, & Alternative Ed.

The Family & Consumer Science Department at Wachusett teaches students valuable skills that are not traditionally part of a modern high school education including cooking, sewing, advanced health, and child care.

Study hall monitors make it possible for students to study, chat, and generally have a good time during their free periods at the Reg, stopping once in a while to discipline the students who take advantage of these privileges too often.

Finally, the teachers in Alternative Education provide a way for the students who do not normally succeed in a traditional classroom to learn and thrive in a supportive community atmosphere.

Cafeteria & Custodial Staff

The Class of 2006 really appreciated the efforts of all the cafeteria staff who kept lunches running smoothly during construction. They worked hard to serve up lunch efficiently, especially on high volume Tuesday and Thursday pizza days, and to make our dining experience as pleasurable as possible.

L-R: Cynthia, Jo-Ann, Glenda and Lynda (missing: Manager Nancy Hasselman and other camera shy staff members!)

Nighttime custodians Steve, Jerry, James, Plant Manager Russ Thierrien, Richie and Erik before heading off to start their shifts. (Missing: daytime custodians Bruce, Pat and Harold and many of the nighttime crew).

With classroom relocations, hallway diversions and challenging weather conditions, on top of the usual day-to-day cleanup of a large high school, the custodial staff had a challenging year. They worked diligently to keep the hallways at WRHS clean, comfortable and safe for student and faculty travel. They facilitated the set up temporary classrooms to keep the educational process flowing at WRHS all year. Thanks to them for their diligence and dedication!

Students vs. Faculty Basketball Game

The Student vs. Faculty Basketball game, held this spring for the second consecutive year, was a hit. Student council raised over $300 for this fundraiser while the athletes showed off thier skills and the crowd had a good laugh. The competitive spirt was high as many students cut deals with their teachers concerning the outcome of the game. There was also plenty of trash-talking on and off the court. With secret weapons such as Mr. Crowley and Mr. Ethier, the teachers held strong with a deep branch of old, young, skilled, and generally uncoordinated players. The student team comprised of seniors on the boys and girls WRHS varsity basketball teams, plus some younger stand-outs, released some built-up tension as they got to push thier teachers around. Celebrity Referee, Doc Miller rarely called fouls as the game often got dirty. Aiding the teachers in a cheap victory was Mrs. Belcher manning the scoreboard. As points mysteriously appeared, the teachers finally took the "5 period" game. Played in good fun, all involved had a great time. The Wachusett tradition lives on.

Looks like the teachers are winning

Retirees

So what exactly will they miss? The 5 o'clock wake-ups, the walk up and down the hill, the massive amounts of papers and tests to grade? Well, what we hope they will miss is our smiling faces, our classroom antics, and our deepest gratitude for the many years they devoted to the betterment of their students.

We will miss everything that you all have done. You have certainly left your individual marks on us as students and Wachusett as a school. We hope that you thoroughly enjoy your retirement; it is well-deserved. Congratulations and Good luck! You will be sorely missed.

The United Clubs and Organizations of Wachusett...

Wachusett Regional High School has students ranging from all ends and heights of the interests spectrum. Clubs and Organizations are fun ways to meet new people and create lasting friendships throughout high school. In order to get everyone engaged with school spirit, the Reg has acquired a variety of after school activities and nothing is out of the question when it comes to the school's clubs and organizations! We've seen everything from the students of NHS who strive for academic execellence, to the melodious members of Brother Sing On, right down to the devoted members of the Hackey Sack club. There are clubs for volunteering, watching movies, discussing issues that pertain to our lives, and playing games. These groups provide an outlet for the students to interact with others who have similar interests as them. Wachusett has clubs that can open your eyes and show you things from every angle. United through groups our students stand, side by side...

This year the Wachusett chapter of Model United Nations, advised by Mr. Jourdain, attended the annual conference held at Brown University, representing the prestigious nations of China and South Africa. Joe Manning and Abbie Staruk left the conference with awards in hand. Mr. Jourdain and 14 students traveled to St. Petersburg, Russia, where they represented Argentina, Libya, and Mexico. Laura Foley, Sarah Shepherd, Tim Daigle, Monica Mazzoli, and Justin Newton took home awards, while Abbie Staruk chaired, and Nicole Montecalvo, Grace Lynch, Tim Daigle, and Meghan Kilcoyne passed their own resolutions. Other attendees were Graham Simpson, Matt Ritter, Alden Wahlstrom, and Joe Manning. Abbie Staruk and Nicole Montecalvo chaired this year's Wachusett conference, while Laura Foley took home the "Best Newcomer" award and Sarah Shepherd took home the "Best Delegate" award. To finish off the year, the group went to Northeastern University, where they represented the coveted USA, Iraq, and Croatia. At this conference, 11 out of the 15 students came home with awards, including Abbie Staruk, Nicole Montecalvo, Justin Newton, Sarah Shepherd, Monica Mazzoli, Allie Pelletz, Laura Foley, Meghan Kilcoyne, Alden Wahlstrom, Shannon Welch and Monica Gribouski.

The So-Called Life of a Student...

Outside the daily hum-drum and monotonous rhythms of the drilling and pounding, there is a variety of activitites that students can be a part of. The student life here at Wachusett is always active, kicking off the year with Spirit Week and Homecoming through decorating the Senior Hallway and Baccalaureate. The year was colored with traditional stand-bys and a few surprises, like the Hypnotist and Mr. Wachusett. Our student government, student counsel, and always imaginative student body never fail to keep Wachusett students enagaged and wanting more. From proms to homecomings to hanging out after school, friends formed memories to last a lifetime. Student life is what gives classmates lasting impressions and unpredictable experiences, while helping us see things from every angle.

Nicole Montecalvo and Ellen Sikonski get ready to bust a move on the dance floor!

The DCU Center in Worcester was flooded with students all dressed up for the final festivities of Homecoming. Everyone danced to the funky sounds of DJ Sco-Pry. It was time to shake your hips and let loose to get into the spirit of homecoming. The students hit the dance floor at 6:30 p.m. and didn't stop until 10:30 at night! This Homecoming was the way to show school spirit and pride during this trying year.

CAFETERIA

This year, students found themselves in an interesting situation while they ate their lunch in the old gymnasium! Gone were the hot unches and warm cookies. Eating in the 'cafenasium' was certainly a memorable experience... especially on Papa Ginos pizza day!

During lunches, students lined up the front of the cafe. Lines for lunch curved in and out of the cafe entrances crowding the hallways, as usual!

Instead of the original Friday pizza day, students and faculty were served Papa Gino's pizza every Tuesday and Thursday afternoon. Yummy!

Project Thursday

If you are a member of the senior class and you've never heard of Project Thursday, then maybe you haven't pai much attention to anything for the past two years. But if you possess some vague recollection of kids walking around in strange outfits - well, that would be it. Consisting of seniors Nate Blake and Dan Arioli, as well as a couple other students in the Wachusett community, Project Thursday is also practiced by kids around the countr Each Thursday, Nate and Dan sport different costumes. Take, for example, the day when Nate was decked out i caution tape. There was also a leisure look, complete with a red satin smoking jacket and pipe. And, of course, a common favorite involved using spoons as a musical instruments. The use of kitchen utensils as clothing brings to the confusion about Project Thursday's purpose: are they trying to convey a message about society? Or are the simply living out their boyhood days of make-believe? No matter what their motive is, these imaginative costum always provided the school with entertainment. And, if you somehow missed Project Thursday for all of high school, check out their website at www.projectthursday.org.

CONSTRUCTION

For the past couple of years, the high school building has been undergoing major changes due to construction. In fact, construction has been a part of the school for so long, that it's hard to remember that Wachusett was like before. But when we do, it's depressing-remember the parking lot, only thirty seconds from the school's entrance? And remember when the senior hallway was a prime piece of real estate? Or for that matter, when you could actually walk through any hallway between classes without touching twenty strangers? Now, it's a totally different scenario, with the hike to and from the parking lot on the hill and the forced sharing of lockers. And on top of the fact that construction is turning the building upside down, it seems like there are more rules than ever; restricted ares, forbidden talk with construction workers, and parking regulations top the list.

All in all, however, construction has given us a lot more benefits than we really give it credit for. The hallways may be angrier, but at least we never have to be to class on time. And the long trek form the parking lot are longer, but at least it's exercise that makes up for all those Phys. ed. classes we slacked off in.

The new building is just an example of how amazing the school will look upon completion and that there is a purpose to all this chaos!

LOCKER BUDDIES

Although the new locker buddies system added to crammed hallways, daily avalanches, and confusion of the hallways, it was a great chance to share some of your day with a friend!

THE ODYSSEY

This year, construction took away the sports teams home fields, the cafeteria, and towards the end of the year, the auditorium was ripped apart. The drama club worked around this obstacle and performed their usual fall play on April 28th through the 30th of 2006. The production, directed by Doug Ingalls and produced by Mimi Paquette, took place at the Chocksett Middle School, in a much smaller auditorium than usual. Either way, the drama club displayed hard work and a wonderful over all show of the ancient Greek story of The Odyssey.

Cayleigh Eckhardt takes a bow after playing her role as Penelope with her husband Odysseus b her side.

OLIVER

This year the drama club performed the hit musical, Oliver, just in time for the holidays. The actresses and actors of the drama club worked liligently to learn their lines in time for the big show, with the direction of Doug Ingalls and produced by Mimi Paquette and the musical score of he WRHS Music Department and Tom Nerbonne. Even though a snow day cancelled one of the performances, there were still happy faces in the udience. The classic story of Oliver Twist hit the stage mid-December and will live in infamy as the last performance ever to take place in the old auditorium.

Performing on the stage: Kaila St.George as Nancy and Adam Parison as Bill Sykes.

Joseph Maurer performs in "Oliver" in his character, Fagin, and reads to the young children.

CROWDED HALLWAYS

Is it hard to squeeze 20 students into one doorway at a time? Yes!

Deirdre Doyno flips out between classes because she can't move through the hallway.

There are some things that students will always remember about Wachusett: the teachers that made them laugh, study periods spent hanging out with friends, and of course, the pushing and shoving that went on in the crowded halls. With construction blocking off several of the main corridors, students, and teachers alike battled their ways through the congested traffic of Wachusett's hallways. Limited routes forced kids and adults to cram into the narrow halls. On your way to the dungeon, (going up to the second floor, around to the opposite corner, and down another two flights of stairs) you would be so close to the kid in front of you that you could smell the kind of shampoo he used, or didn't use. Far worse, however, was the battlefield we knew as the main lobby. The pushing and yelling, the infuriating feeling of having someone step on the heel of your shoe, and even the occassional elbow that hit you hard enough to evoke a grunt of pain - these inconveniences may have been obnoxious, but at least they provided everyone with an excuse to be late for class. And seniors, we still had our hallway, even if it was accessible only by one door. It also might have been 30 degrees lower than the rest of the school in winter, but just be thankful you weren't upstairs in the sophomore hall, that was conveniently warmed by the body heat of all those kids crammed together. Even though it was freezing this winter, the sensible people left the school and walked outside to reach their classes, all to avoid the hysteria of the main lobby. Forget the parking lot - where we really needed the directory gestures of Sargeant Armstrong was in our hallways!

Students and teachers flood the main lobby of the school bumping and hitting on another in an effort to get to class on time.

MODEL UNITED NATIONS

This year, the Wachusett chapter of Model United Nations was invited to attend the tenth anniversary conferenc of SPIMUN (St. Petersburg International Model United Nations), along with three other American schools, and schools from countries across the world, such as Israel, Turkey, Russia, Ghana, Switzerland, Canada, Lebanon, and Spain. Advisor Joseph Jourdain accompanied the following fourteen students to Russia: Tim Daigle, Laura Foley, Meghan Kilcoyne, Grace Lynch, Joe Manning, Monica Mazzoli, Nicole Montecalvo, Justin Newton, Kati Palmgren, Matt Ritter, Sarah Shepherd, Graham Simpson, Abbie Staruk, and Alden Wahlstrom. Abbie Staruk wa given the oppurtunity to chair the Human Rights committee during the four days that the conference lasted, whil the other students represented Argentina, Libya, and Mexico. The conference took place in St. Petersburg from March 19 - 22. Tim Daigle and Sarah Shepherd took home the Best Delegate awards for their committees, while Laura Foley, Monica Mazzoli, and Justin Newton received commendations. Tim Daigle, Meg Kilcoyne, and Nicole Montecalvo got their resolutions approved and passed.

When the students weren't in the conference, they enjoyed sight-seeing in St. Petersburg. They went to the Hermitage which was a former palace of Catherine the Great, and also one of the largest musuems in the world. They ate dinner at a restaurant called Propaganda, modeled after the USSR days. The group also visited the Church of Spilled Blood and attended a Russian ballet. They witnessed a Russian church mass, and ate dinner at several palaces. After the conference ended, the club went to one of the oldest cities in Russia, Novgorod. They went to the Kremlin, and a mock village of what Novgorod used to be like in its ancient days. All in all, a good time was had and the club remarked it as one of their favorite trips!

CLOSE-UP CLUB

Every year, members of the Close-Up Club travel to other parts of the world to get first hand looks at different cultures. This year, the trip was to the nation's capital where students got a behind-the-scene view of the American political system. Under Advisor Jack Farley, fourteen Wachusett students met with other Close-Up Clubs from around the country. Visiting Washington D.C. allowed students to expand their political knowledge, as they also had the opportunity to meet some members of Congress.

From a world angle...

Veronica Becerra from Venezuela was the only foreign exchange student this year. We enjoyed sharing our senior year experiences with her, and learned a lot about her culture as well. These are a few snapshots and anecdotes that capture Veronica's time at WRHS.

Coming here has been such a wonderful experience, at the beginning, the difference in our cultures came as a shock, but in the past few months, I have made some great friends. Wachusett is a huge high school, but it is also a community and I have become a part of it. I don't get lost in the hallways anymore, now I wave to my friends or stop and talk to them as I walk through the school.

It came as a shock that school is already ending! The year passed by so fast thanks to the Banks, my host family. There were times when I really wanted to go home, but in the end I am glad I stayed because I lived through things that I never thought I would do, and visited places that I would have never imagined I would see.

Thank you Wachusett, thanks to the Banks, my best friend Paola Cerviatti and my host sister Katherine Banks!

IMAGINE IF...

Living and learning in the Wachusett community, there are several things we as seniors would have loved to "imagine if..."

"We were all still with our family classes." - Hailey Conn

"We had heat in the winter and air conditioning in the summer." - Christina Gerolomo

"We could get to class on time." - Jess Carpenter

Time rolls on and things change, imagine if everything stayed the same...If we could still be with that family class we loved and those 90's bands were still around...Imagine if we had those necessities to a learning environment like hot lunch and heat so we would not have to freeze to death and eat those bagged lunched our mommy's made us...Even after all the turmoil at the Reg. we survived!

"People stopped complaining about the construction." - Jon Allain

"The New Kids On The Block made a come back" - Lauren Kender

REMEMBER WHEN...

Over the past four years that we have spent together, there are certain memories that we will never forget! Here are some class favorites...

"Peter Lanciani ran for Homecoming Queen."

"School was cancelled because it was so cold!"

"Lunches were only $1.25"

"Rachel Brill took a dip in the freshman pond! "

right: " When the Red Sox won the World Series! "

left: " Murt Qutab brought turn tables to study "

"We won the superbowl twice in a row! "

"Mr. Lewis was the Athletic Director!"

"The whole live journal incident happened! "

"Angela Marzo ran her car into the modular's! "

"We had buffalo chicken in the old cafeteria!"

"We had the glass staircase. "

Young love is precious and fragile. Whether you have been together since freshman year, or your love blossomed as seniors, romance is an exciting aspect of high school. Though it may not last forever, hopefully we can all look back and smile at the memories. The romantic dinners at Friendly's, holding hands at the movies, wild PDA's in the hallways, late night phone calls, meeting the parents, first dances together, cheering on your boyfriend or girlfriend during the big game. You will never have a relationship like this again. Immature but real, we learn from our high school romances but grow from them. These couples share something special and we wish them the best in the future.

BEST FRIENDS

"Friends are the Bacon Bits in the Salad Bowl of Life"

Without friends, where would all the fun be in high school? Going to school everyday just to sit in the classroom usually isn't the highlight of anyone's day, but knowing that your friends will be there, too, always helps. Whether inside of school or out, friends will be there for everything...the tears, the laughs, the drama and the joy. Friends will be there for you no matter what. As for the friends below, these seniors not only grew up together, but remained the best of friends for all four years of high school.

It's torture enough to inhabit the same house as your younger brother or sister, never-mind sharing the same high school. Still, as annoyed as you might be with your siblings, it's actually kind of endearing to see them in that awkward stage we all went through as underclassmen. And you have to admit that you crack a smile when friends comment on seeing a miniature version of you in the hallway or teachers mix up your names in class. Not only that, but sometimes you're surprised that your sibling is actually cool enough that you allow yourself to be seen walking down the hall with him or sitting at her lunch table. And if you avoid contact with your flesh and blood all together, at least you can always catch your brother when he steals your favorite baseball hat, or your sister when she wears your brand new shirt, and use it against them next time you want something. NICKNAMES

" How did you get yours? "

"DUNK"

"My nickname started in about second or third grade when one of my friends called me 'Dunk' because of my last name. Since then everyone has been calling me that." -Mike Dunkerly

" CHOPS "

"In middle school, Bryan Riley's Dad came up with the name and it stuck with me ever since. Once i got to high school people just started calling me 'Chops'." -Ryan Lamoreux

" C-MAC "

"The summer going into freshman year, all the incoming freshmen girls playing basketball were playing in a tournament. They called me C-Mac for short, and it just stuck!" -Courtney Macaruso

" VILHELM "

"There is absolutely no reason for my nickname. My friends just started calling me Vilhelm, so I guess that's how it started?!" -Will DeBois

" BEN-BOT "

"I work at a christmas tree farm, and one of the kids I work with thought that I worked like a robot, so people just started calling me Ben-Bot!" -Ben Regan

" TWINKIE "

"I would always wear my Twinkie pj's, and I started asking my friends to refer to me as Twinkie." -Kristin Fricka

" THE HAMMER "

"Well, my last name is Hamm, so I guess the nickname just came from my last name!" -Jeff Hamm

" DANIMAL "

"I was at Hampton Beach with a bunch of my friends and I was eating fish for the first time and one of my friends told me that I 'looked like some kind of danimal!" -Dan Lombardo

" J-BIRD "

"Freshman year on the bus on the way to school, Ryan Blakeney dubbed me with the nickname of J-Bird, and from then on people just called me that." -Jonny Maclennan

" SPIDEY "

"Freshman year I had a different Spiderman tee-shirt for every day of the week! I knew everything there was to know about Spiderman so Mr. Davis called me Spidey!" -Jon Olen

" BEAMER "

"When I was little, I was always smiling so my mom started calling me Beamer! I've had the nickname for my whole life!" -Brian Boyce

THE FIRST DAY OF SCHOOL

Walking into Wachusett Regional High School for the first time in 2002 hit all of us with mixed feelings...

"September 3, 2002: Freshman Year

Dear Diary,

High School. So cavernous, cold, uninviting. Starting over, no identity. Everyone looking, everyone judging. Their eyes pierce my soul. Aimless youth, all trapped together but no one connecting. Education or isolation. Class dismissed."

All right, so maybe Cindy Sanders is a little melodramatic about freshman year, but any senior will say it was pretty rough to fall from the top of the ladder to the bottom of the barrel. Not to mention embarrassing - if you need a reminder of that awkward and misguided preteen phase, just dig up that freshman year ID (we know you saved it).

Things to remember about the first day of school: chaotic buses, the struggle to find homeroom, the Barenaked Ladies, and tedious introductory lectures. The confusion of the following weeks, however, is strikingly more vivid. Kids looked like idiots trying to make their way to classrooms and lockers, often arriving late to class.

Freshman year wasn't all that horrific. After a while the building wasn't so confusing, the seniors didn't seem so big and scary, and we adjusted to high school pretty well. But be thankful that we're not freshmen anymore, that we've shed those layers of awkwardness and immaturity. Well, almost.

During their senior year, the AP environmental class took a trip to Utah during April break, from Friday, April 14 to Saturday, April 22. Accompanied by Mr. Weymouth, Mr. Guerrin, and Mr. Weis, Dan Whitmore, Amber Gogeun Greg Salber, Sean Fluerry, Alicia Andrade, Monika Mangsen, Alex Gufsteson, went on the trip. During their first day in Utah, the group biked Zion National Park. Throughout the trip, they also went to Bryce National Park, Escalante, and went on several hiking expeditions. While at Zion National Park, the group went to Angels Landing, which is a 6,000 peak of Zion Canyon with a drop-off hike on either side. The group hiked slot canyons, which are canyons that have spots to walk in from the water creating a path in them. Additionally, they went on an adventure by wading into a hiking path through water that was at a temperature of about freezing. From the trip, the students and teachers took with them a new appreciation for colors of rocks and their formation. Some of the rocks they saw varied from colors of bright red, to orange, and vivid yellow. Dan Whitmore claims, "The pictures don't do the colors justice, and they are something you need to go out and see someday in your life because it's amazing."

Mr. Guerin looks up at the camera as he takes a break from climbing up the canyon. Maybe he is trying to explain why he is so far behind?!

COMPETITION PLAY

"The Bald Soprano"

At the coming of the new year, six members of the drama club were selected to compete at a regional level in their production of The Bald Soprano. Michael Sovolosky played the role of Mr. Smith, Rachael Starbard played the role of the Maid, Kayla Duke played Mrs. Smith, Joseph Maurer played Mr. Martin, Cayleigh Eckhardt played Mrs. Martin, and Adam Parison took on the role of the Fire Chief.

The Wachusett drama club performed for the public a few times in the cafeteria before traveling to Holliston High School to compete at the regional competition. Unfortunately, the one act play did not make it past the first round. It was a disapointment for all involved, however, their talent rose above all.

The class trip hadn't happened for two years in a row. Finally, the class of 2006 made it happen, and on May 19, 2006 the class traveled to The High Meadows Resort in Granby, Connecticut. Even though the sun only came out for about an hour at the end of the trip, we made the best of it. Swimming and dancing in the rain were only a few of the many happenings at the resort. Several activities such as, mechanical bull riding, rock climbing, bungee racing, horse-shoe games, volleyball games, and even potato sack racing made the day unforgetable!

S.A.D.D. DAY

Prom traditions don't solely include limos and dancing. A branch of student council, the S.A.D.D. committee, continued the tradition of S.A.D.D Day, on May 18, 2006. As usual, the school was decorated with posters of poems and stats about students and certain destructive decisions. The committee got a guest speaker, Matthew Ballance, who talked to the junior and senior classes about his sobriety and certain choices that we'll be faced with in our lives. Not only did he talk about his life long sobriety, but his high school years and college experiences. Matthew attended Bucknell University where in 1997, he developed a new club called C.A.L.V.I.N. and H.O.B.B.E.S, which is a group of students who practice sobriety and the club provides housing for the students who are included in such practices.

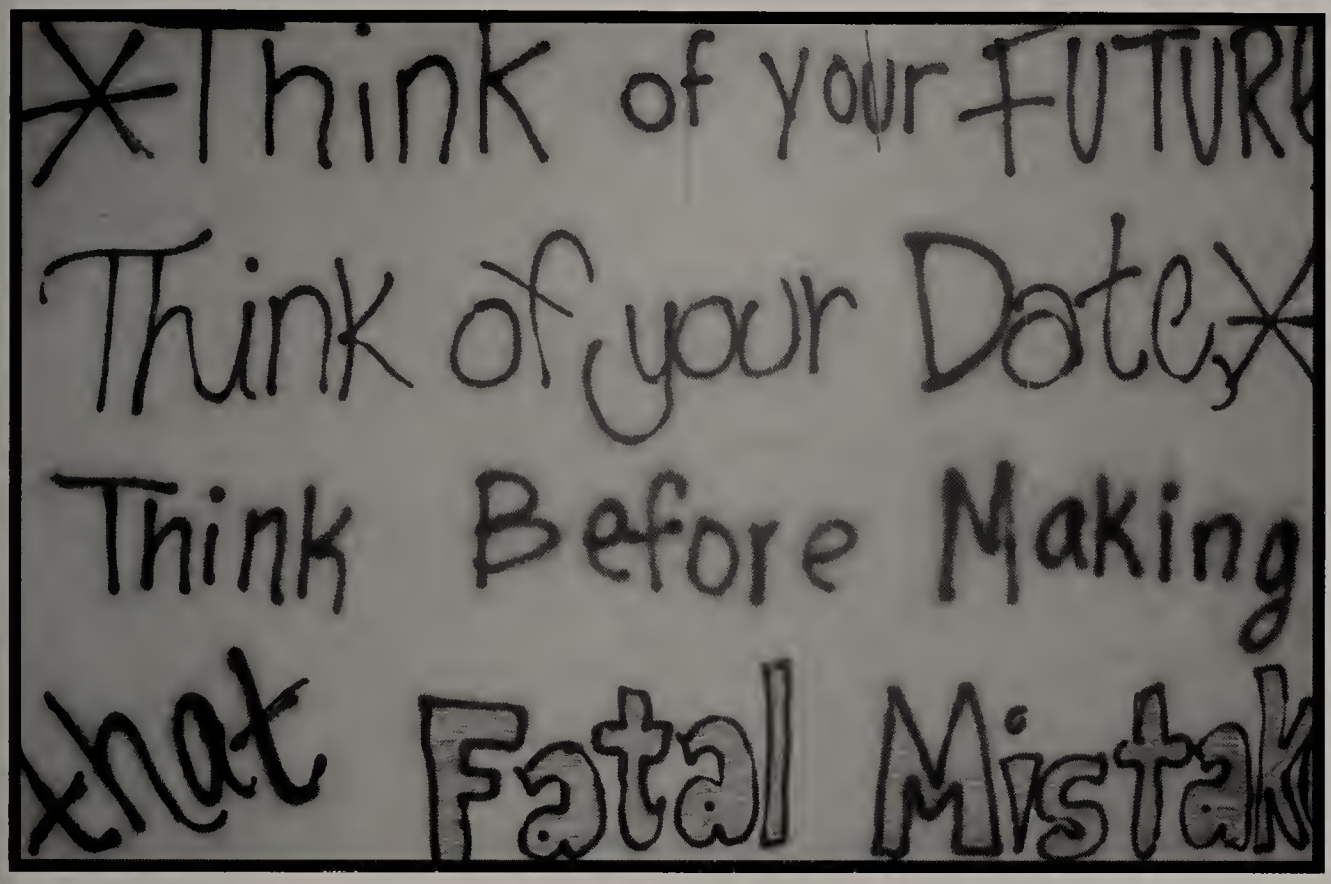

Other than the guest speaker, yellow ribbons were strung on lockers in remembrance of all who have died in a drunk driving accidents. A large poster of a poem was hung in the cafeteria that wrapped all the way around the cafeteria. Also, the police station displayed the car that was the car of a victim of a drunk driving accident. All in all, the day went over really well, and hopefully made an impact on students.

This year it was a lot easier to find places to hang large posters. In a way, SADD Day helped decorate the schools plastic-covered and plywood walls!

SENIOR PROM

Following the tradition of the past years, the senior prom was held at the Double Tree Hotel in Westboro, Massachusetts. This year, the prom took place on the evening of June 2, 2006. This years prom was one of Wachusett's largest proms ever! Over five-hundred people attended and danced the night away. The food was delicious, the music was great and the atmosphere was full of happy seniors!

SENIOR BREAKFAST

Senior breakfast is a tradition that the seniors look forward to every year. After all the exams are done with, they gather together to share their final meal in the cafe on the morning of May 26, 2006. Bagels, donuts and juice are served as friends chat up a storm and then receive caps and gowns for graduation day. The seniors last hoorah in the school that will never be the same.

Senior Flare

Rockin' their homemade senior-wear, Amanda Beaupre and Cayleigh Eckhart can't help but grin as they walk through the halls of Wachusett one last time.

Words of Cheer

Congratulations! Welcoming words to any high school senior ready to graduate. Signs like this one graced the walls of Wachusett on the morning of Senior Breakfast.

One Last Look

As seniors flood the cafeteria, few stop to appreciate the lasting significance the breakfast has. This gathering of seniors and faculty is the last time the cafeteria will be graced with the graduating classes' presence.

Finally, A Break

After four years at Wachusett Regional, Jon Doskocil is more than eager to relax on his last day of high school.

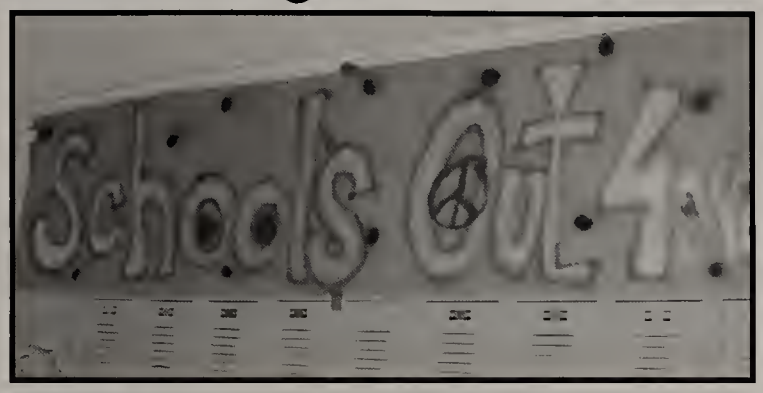

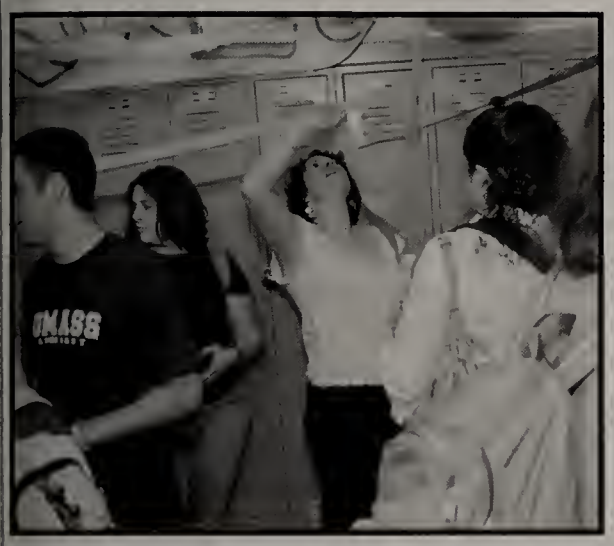

Smiles all Around

Not only is Senior Breakfast a time to catch up on the summer plans of your senior's also the perfect time to snap a few last memories with your friends. Nothing says good bye quite like a picture. Senior Hallway

Seniors decorated the Senior Hallway on their last day of exams this year due to all the construction. Seniors brought all sorts of decorations and just go haywire. This year's hallway included lots of colorful balloons, confetti, banners, even the school mascot and painted signs. Students loaded up on the spray paint and let loose on the plywood wall that stands in the place of the old office. Seniors adorned their names and initials and salutations. The decorating of the senior hallway is a lasting tradition at Wachusett that offers the seniors an entertaining way of saying goodbye.

On Saturday June 10, 2006 friends, family, school faculty and the graduating class gathered at the DCU Center in downtown Worcester. Although it was a rainy day, the sun inside the room was shining with all of the graduates eagerly awaiting their diplomas. The class president Elizabeth Braily gave the first speech to start the ceremony off. The valedictorian Lauren Keifer gave a metaphorical speech, that put the trials and tribulations of our high school experience into perspective by comparing them to classic childhood board games. Cayleigh S. Eckhardt, Abigail Staruk, and Kiersten S. Rooke were the three candidates chosen to deliever speeches at the graduation ceremony. Cayleigh's speech was a sentimental one. She made the graduating class realize that their "Wachusett" would never be the same, the building that they would be returning to would not be the one that they had spent all four years of high school in. Abigail's speech educated everyone on the history of the cap and gown. She also showed us the power we posses with out newly found knowledge, with it in hand we have the ability to shape our futures and the world. Kiersten S. Rooke's speech gave the graduates the tip to expect the unexpected, and prepare for everything. She took the graduates down memory lane and reminded them what they would miss next year when they are off doing bigger better things. When it was time for the first name to be called for thier diploma, you could hear the excitement in the room, and you could see it. There were beach balls flying all over the graduates heads as the names were being called. The excitement grew until the last name was called and the seniors of 2006 turned into the graduating class of 2006. The seniors are the last ones who will remember the school as it once was and as our class president Elizabeth Brailey said "We have survived Wachusett both physically and mentally through construction and academic rigor. Today is a day to celebrate what we have accomplished and look forward to the future." This is exactly what the graduating class did.

Snow Days '05-'06 - 5

Days Cancelled from Construction - 4

"So whether we have opted for college, work, or travel next year, hopefully our decision will be the one that allows us to collect the maximum number of points – or, in other words, get the most out of that time in our life."

"This whole experience of graduating becomes more surreal for us because we know that we will never be able to come back to our school. Every week, our crumbling campus changes and we lose a little bit more of our Wachusett. Every day we are reminded of this as we slog through the mud, dodge the drips, circumnavigate the most recent construction area, and then negotiate the plastic hallways like a parade of scholastic hamsters. It has always seemed that, to paraphrase author Noelie Alito, the shortest distance between two points is always under construction. For us, the end result of that construction is the gradual dismantling of the landmarks of our memories. When I come back years from now, I won't see the same familiar building where I have spent the last four years; our building will be gone forever. Today, this idea magnifies and heightens the gravity of what we are accomplishing. We can never come back to our Wachusett because it is constantly changing, just as we as individuals are. We cannot go back in time. We cannot rely on something that doesn't exist anymore. As our school changes, we face the end of our childhood head on. We know, more than any other class, that a building does not constitute a good education; we know that our school, our Wachusett is a symbol for change, for moving on, and for growing up."

Cayleigh S. Eckhardt

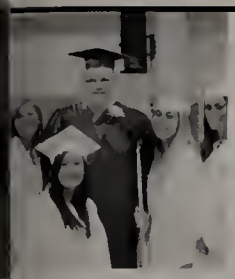

" When trying to think of what high school could be compared to, I immediately thought of one of my favorite things in the whole world. No, not Harry Potter books, Harrison Ford, or rap music, but board games. During these past four years, we had to use the patience, dedication, and hard work often required to make it through a tedious, yet rather fulfilling, game.

My favorite game to play when I was very young was Checkers, possibly because it was the only one I could really understand. Well, life at Wachusett often seemed to be a match of Checkers – we really only wanted to get to the other side, but sometimes it was not that easy. Sure, the hallways looked like a straight shot, but we could not really get to where we wanted to without dodging in and out, side to side, and avoiding unwanted obstacles and distractions. Schoolwork followed much of the same pattern – sometimes all we really wanted to do was find the answer to that impossible Calculus problem, but it was necessary to maneuver our way through the challenging stuff first."

Lauren E. Keifer

Class of 2006

"So my advice to you, the class of 2006, is not only to expect the unexpected, but to embrace it and let it shape who you become."

"...The following day, the banquet hall was lavishly decorated. The moment finally came when the students entered, but instead of applause, a startled cry came from the crowd. The young men were not dressed in clothes befitting a noble, but rather, in simple cloth robes and carrying mortarboards—the mark of a common worker.

"Let me explain," said the teacher, trying to calm the angry parents. "Your sons are dressed in the clothes of a mason, for their destiny is to build. Some will build cities, some will build lives, and perhaps, one will even build an empire; but all will be builders on the strong foundation of knowledge."

Here we are, thousands of years later, wearing the same clothes as the Greek scholars. Our parents, teachers, and friends look upon us with respect and pride, not the horror of the noble parents. We look at ourselves with hope, knowing that we have places to go, changes to make, and destinies to build."

Abigail Staruk

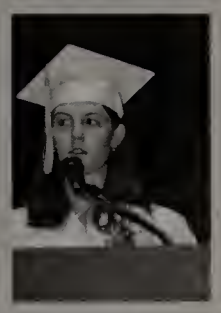

"Our school itself underwent drastic changes. Although it may seem like the distant past, there was a time when "home-field advantage" meant that the field was somewhere on the property, when you got a locker all to yourself, when the parking lot was on level ground, when you really did only have five minutes between classes, and when tacos, pretzels, and pasta-your-way were options for lunch. Even though we didn't get the chance to rule the senior cafeteria, we did get some excellent new buildings and something like suburban street cred for surviving the construction. With the school in this state, something unexpected happened every few weeks, if not every day, presenting new challenges, but also helping us learn to cope with surprise situations.

Apart from the construction, the class of 2006 has experienced many other unexpected events. The Patriots won the Super Bowl a few times, and so did the Mountaineers. Hell froze over, and the Red Sox won the World Series. A movie about a Disney theme park ride was a box office smash, and Bennifer didn't last (although the unexpectedness of that last one is debatable). As a nation, we found ourselves deeply entrenched in Iraq, seeking elusive WMDs, and gave President Bush the go ahead for another four years. We've hotly debated social and technological issues that were barely relevant when we first started school. With every unexpected turn of events, another opportunity to grow and react as maturing adults presented itself. It is through contact with the unexpecte that we make our personal gains."

Kiersten S. Rooke

The Competitive Edge of Wachusett...

Being part of a team is something to cherish, you will always have someone who has your back. You work together with everyone on that team to obtain that victory to become the champions! As in past years at Wachusett, the Mountianeers in the 2005-2006 sports seasons produced award-winning teams driven by their skills, dedication, and sense of camaraderie. From running and swimming, to various forms of ball-throwing, ball-kicking, and some fierce stick-play, the athletic department once again brought glory to the high school as the teams continued to build on the legacy of athletic excellence. Despite some injuries, losses, and especially the lack of adequate facilities, such as not having a gym, or any fields to play on, Wachusett's sports teams have maintained their high levels of competition and sportsmanship that will be remembered by players and fans forever. There are many students at Wachusett who have played a sport in every season and every year, and there are others who may have just started and have not played as long, but regardless of the length of time you play, sports and being part of a team will open your eyes to all sides of every angle.

"This year has been so amazing. Being part of the Mountaineer Athletic Program has been awesome. Such great athletes, such great kids - I am going to miss my seniors."
Miss Lahey, Field Hockey and Softball

"Sports serve society by providing vivid examples of excellence."

Boys Soccer

The very aggressive boys varsity soccer team had their best season. They played strong and hard for their many wins. Amazing defense and a powerful goalie helped the team unite as one on the field. Dan Gerhardt was a leading goal scorer and with the help of Ryan Richards at the other end The team had a terrific season. The boys were always willing to work hard for each other and for the team with practices everyday, many sprints and long work outs.

Girls Soccer

14-0-2 Once again, the Girls' Varsity Soccer team had a season full of late-night practices, victories and the strange behavior that makes it all so interesting. With their own version of "boot camp," salsa dancing, and even a rendition of Tae-Bo, the girls managed to take the focus off of soccer and have fun. And not only did they enjoy the season, but the team also continued to build up an excellent record. Captain Heather Cetto stated, "Real success is finding your life work in the things you love doing." Well, apparently the girls love to play soccer.

Boys XC

4-5-0 Cross country is a sport that has always been followed closely by the Wachusett community. Over the years boys' XC has built up their credibility. With the loss of some of the top runners, the boys' XC team was still able to keep a competitive edge. Winning at both the league and district meets were some of the most memorable moments of the season. Captain Alex Leith, who was named MVP and League All star, provides this advice to his fellow athletes, "Hard work beats talent when talent doesn't work hard," and since it seems to work for him, it's probably advice worth heeding.

Boys Indoor Track

Once again Wachusetts boys indoor track had another accomplished season. This year was ver successful and memorable like beating Shrewsbury at Leagues which kept Shrewsbury fro being Co-league champs. The team had great bonding and was like one big family. The boy placed fifth at leagues but ended up coming in second at disticts. The team will be sad to lose l seniors who brought great unity to the team, but the juniors won't have a problem stepping it u next year. This season was unforgettable and successful as usual.

Girls Indoor Track

The Wachusett girls indoor track team proved themselves to be very competitive. The team had excellent leadership from the twelve seniors, four of which were captains. The girls were co-league champs, district champs, and they finished their season with a record of 7-1. Only four runners went to All States and they were able to come away with second place. Kimberly Shooshan broke her previously set record in the 1,000 meter run with a new time of 2:58:00. Olympic runner Patti Sue Plumer once said "Racing teaches us to challenge ourselves. It teaches us to push beyond where we thought we could go. It helps us to find out what we are made of. This is what we do. This is what its all about." The girls' hard work and dedication proved these words to be true.

Swimming

The Wachusett swim team had another successful season coming in third at the League Championship. This y the team was led by captains Liz Braley, Ashley Chase, and Kristine Trutor. The season started off with a roc start when Krissy Trutor dislocated her shoulder, but the rest of the team knew they had to step it up. The b kept breaking school records in the 200 freestyle and medley relay and made 1-1 to states. The team also had impressive amount of swimmers at Districts and States. The team had great unity and team work which ma practices enjoyable. Once again before leagues the team dressed up in colorful tights and their home made t-sh at school before the big meet for good luck. The girls placed 6th at Districts. This was a very acomplshed seas and the team will be sad to lose 10 seniors but there is no doubt that the underclassmen will pick up the slack.

Boys Volleyball

The 2005-2006 season for the boys volleyball team was very exciting and suspenseful. The team ended the year with an impressive 16-4 record, the best in school history. The season was filled with outstanding performances by all players, especially the three senior co-captains; Jon Allain, Travis Bridges, and Matt Snyder. Snyder, Bridges, and junior Timothy Scannell were named Mid-Wach All Stars for their performances this year.

Girls Golf

The girls golf team had a swinging season this year! Even having to play in the rain several times, the team played with good humor and companionship. They improved their swing at the driving range and practiced a lot of putting to improve their overall score. The practice payed off because with Jacqui Mooney and Jess Stoneham as the team captains, the team was able to work together to get to the states. They placed 11th out of 40 teams which was a great acheivement since it was the first time the team has made it to the states.

Boys Spring Track

The boys track team had another good season this year, thanks to the steady performance of many return athletes.

Girls Spring Trac

The girls spring track team started off early with a close win against Mid-Wach rival Shrewsbury, but several key athletes were lost due to injuries. Throughout the season, the girls managed to beat most of their competition, except for eventual League champs, Algonquin. The girls finished second at Leagues and followed up with a sixth place finish at Districts. Senior Lisa Wilson finished her remarkable career with school records in the shot put and discus. A number of athletes had personal bests during the season. The Mountaineers are losing ten strong seniors this year, but are looking forward to next spring when they will have their very own track!

From the Inside

When you thought I wasn't looking, I saw you hang up my first painting on the refrigerator, and I wanted to paint another one.
When you thought I wasn't looking, I saw you feed a stray cat, and I thought it was good to be kind to animals.
When you thought I wasn't looking, I saw you make my favorite cake for me, and I knew that little things are special things.
When you thought I wasn't looking, I felt you kiss me goodnight, and I felt loved.
When you thought I wasn't looking, I saw that you cared, and I wanted to be everything that I could be.
When you thought I wasn't looking, I LOOKED....and wanted to say thanks for all the things I saw when you thought I wasn't looking.

Thank you for always being there...

Colophon

The Mountaineer is an annual publication by the yearbook staff at Wachusett Regional High School, 1401 Main Street, Holden, MA 01520. The towns served by the high school are Holden, Paxton, Princeton, Rutland and Sterling. The book was distributed to the Class of 2006 at a social in mid-August.

The book was published in Winston-Salem, North Carolina at the Jostens Publishing Division. The cover was designed for our staff by Rick Brooks of the Creative Resources Department of Jostens.

The cover was designed by Rick Brooks of Jostens with the assistance of members of the yearbook staff. The cover material is High Gloss Litho 478 using Process Color 317. The cover has a matte lamination.

Senior portraits were taken by Wayne Myers and his associates at Myers Studio of Sterling, MA, the designated yearbook photographer. Other professional photographers did some of the portraits. Athletics (both teams and candids), clubs, organizations, faculty and major school events were photographed at no charge to the yearbook by Myers Studio. The studio also generously provided the yearbook staff with digital CD's, developing and equipment at no extra charge. Additional athletic, event and candid photographs were taken by members of the yearbook staff as well as donated by various members of the Class of 2006, their parents and advisors. O'Connor School Portraits photographed the underclassmen for student ID's and made these photos available to the yearbook staff at no cost.

The approximate printing of this book is $42,000. This figure includes publishing costs, freight charges, shipment of materials to North Carolina, color candid photography, expenses and other supplies. The per copy cost to the public is $65. Monies are raised through an assessment to the Senior Class per student, parents ads, patron/sponsor solicitation campaign, yearbook staff fundraisers and the proceeds from soda machines in the gym corridor. The 312 pages are representative of the entire Wachusett student body and their community.

Advisor Thanks

Some say the third time is a charm....

This year, as we say goodbye to yearbook advising, we must say that we could not ask for a more helpful and mature staff. We would like to take this opportunity to thank all of you who made this 2006 Mountaineer possible.

First off, we must thank Wayne and Bev Myers of Myers Studio. You both were there to help us through a difficult year, finding creative places for pictures. At a moment's notice, you were there to take candids, our Senior Photos, proms, the winter carnival, and our sports teams, just to name a few. We encourage Seniors to use Myers Studio for their future picture needs.

Peter Greer, thank you so much for the laughs and help. Your phone was always on for our late night meetings and it was comforting to know we could get you at a moment's notice. Your professionalism and dedication is greatly appreciated. Gracias to Rick Brooks for yet another perfect cover and endsheets, you are the best!

Cathy Nicastro, through all the Parent Ads, fundraising, and purchases, you were were a great help with our fiances. Your organization and . Thank you.

To all the WRHS Staff Members who have supported us along the way: Ed McTigue and Dave McKenney with all our computer needs and access to the photo scanner, Ginny Belcher, Amy Kathman, Donna Bradway, Della Ritland, Nancy Grenier, Donna Laramee, thank your for the help, favors, and patience. A special thanks to Janet Foss for being so gracious in letting us use her computer lab.

To our staff: You made us want to stay another year (almost!) We thank you all for your dedication and the laughs. You made those long Tuesday and Mondays on a deadline bearable. Claire and Kasey, our editors in chief, we were nervous about having two people share the job, but after the first week, you alleviated all our fears. Thank you for staying organized and positive each meeting. You were both always willing to pick up the slack. Ashley and Christina, we are still amazed at how quickly you can get those pages done! You worked independently and came ready to get those pages done. You made putting together the 400+ pictures and write-ups seem like a breeze! Deirdre, Nicole, and Page (yes, we remember you Page!) You guys brought energy to your pages and each meeting. You all took criticism constructively and made those Student Life events/pages really something to remember. Andrea, you took a lot on at once, with little help, but you plugged along and got those Academic pictures done, even with some faculty who would hide our the camera. Great work! Kelly and Ashley, thank you for your patience and commitment while we waited to get our clubs and organizations photos done. As we said, they are our best club pages to date! Megan and Whitney, your sport pages look like they could be in Sports Illustrated! You got them done for each deadline and we greatly appreciate that. You saved us more than a few times... To the PDA girls, Jen and Adrienne, thank you for helping out with the parent ads. Kudos to our occasional photographers, we appreciate the pictures you took for the book.

Last but not least, thank you again to Lynn Leschke for her continual guidance throughout the year.

To the class of 2006, please thank all of the yearbook staff for their hard work and dedication in capturing memories that last a lifetime, from every angle. Good luck and enjoy!

- Christina Lee and Sasha Piccione

Letter to the Class...

Seniors it seems as though we got the short end of the stick. We are graduating high school without seeing the finished product. However, the reality is that this was the best year of high school. We were allowed to walk into class late without stepping into a D-hall, not showing up for a class because you could not find you classroom was legit excuse, and having to move into open space number two because the ceiling started to rain are just a few of the things that we have dealt with.

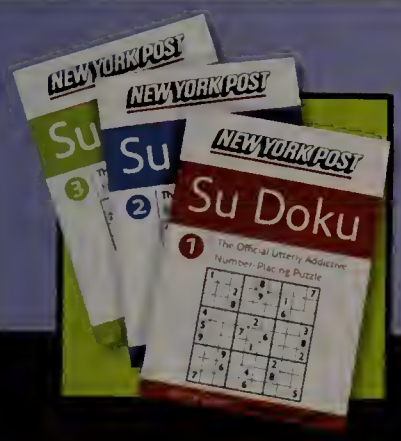

Our class has been faced with some of the most difficult of challenges Wachusett has yet to see. Walking down the hallways can seem more like trekking through the wilderness than scurrying into the classrooms at the sound of the bell. No matter where in the school you are, the whining and moaning of students resonates, overpowering the bursts of laughter. It's hard to imagine remembering Wachusett in any other light; that is by the little yellow caged light bulbs that hang so elegantly from the ceilings. But the construction is not what defines our time here. We are the class of 2006. We have been able to survive not only the struggles every high school students faces, but we have survived with pressing obstacles in our way. Instead of thinking of it as an annoyance, burden, or hindrance to the ideal school experience, we have to see it as a mere bump in the road that will grant us the patience and strength to overcome the bigger bumps in the road ahead of us.

Our class is comprised of the serious and the immature, the straightforward and the playful, realists and the dreamers but no matter how large the difference, we all share a sense of curiosity about what lies ahead. Whether reaching above to the sky or approaching it down to earth; walking along side a best friend or starting cautiously around the corner, we are all in this together. Side by side. No matter the amount of guessing, the truth is there is no way of knowing what the future brings. We are walking into the dark with as much fear as excitement. But through the stress and angst of it all, we can safely say with a peace of mind that our time at Wachusett has come to end. The good thing about learning something at Wachusett is that there is never just one interpretation of the lesson. Wachusett has always shown us to view things from every angle. What we have learned and experienced here will offer us guidance as we enter the real world, prepared and ready, we are eager to leave our mark on the world of tomorrow with the accomplishments of yesterday.

Sincerely,
The Editors

Hurricanes ravage the Gulf Coast region in the fall of 2005, posing an unprecedented test of the United States federal emergency response efforts. Hundreds of lives are lost and thousands are left homeless in the wake of Category 4 Hurricane Katrina, followed by Rita and Wilma. The tragedy spurs contributions of money, talents, homes, food and more in an attempt to raise spirits and rebuild the area.

RISING FROM THE STORMS

August

25 Hurricane Katrina strikes Florida.

28 Mandatory evacuation of both New Orleans and Mississippi is ordered as Katrina becomes a Category 5 storm in the Gulf of Mexico.

29 Downgraded to a Category 4 storm, Katrina hits land. 1.3 million homes and businesses lose electricity in Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama. 30 levees are breeched, flooding New Orleans and leaving 100,000 people stranded. After slow government response, civil unrest and looting begins.

31 President Bush surveys the damage.

September

1 30,000 National Guard troops are deployed. Gas prices spike to as high as $5 per gallon.

2 President Bush visits Louisiana and signs a $10.5 billion relief bill. Nearly 154,000 evacuees arrive in Texas.

4 The New Orleans Superdome is evacuated.

6 President Bush and Congress pledge to investigate the flawed disaster response.

9 Government-issued debit cards are distributed to evacuees. The program fails and is ended days later.

12 Michael Brown, head of the Federal Emergency Management Agency, resigns. Flooding is down to 50 percent in New Orleans.

14 New Orleans Mayor Ray Nagin announces a phased repopulation plan.

15 New Orleans begins to reopen. Katrina is named the most destructive hurricane in U.S. history.

20 Louisiana Governor Kathleen Blanco declares a state of emergency as Hurricane Rita strengthens off the coast.

22 Rita hits the Louisiana coast and heads for Texas.

23 Thousands evacuate eastern Texas and the 9th Ward of New Orleans floods once again after levees are overrun.

October

24 Hurricane Wilma hits southwest Florida.
